KINDERGARTENS

Volunteering in Kindergartens

Volunteers who choose to work in kindergartens should possess a genuine love for children and patience, as they will be interacting with kids as young as 3 years and older. These children don't understand English, they may even have not fully developed verbal communication, so it's crucial for volunteers to approach them with patience, understanding, love, and support. It's important to note that volunteers will not be working alone; they will always be accompanied by teachers. The primary role of volunteers will be to assist teachers, but they will also have opportunities to organize their own workshops with teacher support. Activities may include playing on the carpet, engaging in outdoor activities, arts and crafts, or simply spending time with the children. If you choose to volunteer in a kindergarten setting, these are important aspects to consider.

LIBRARIES

Volunteering in Public Libraries

If you're a book lover who enjoys being surrounded by books, then volunteering in a library might be the perfect workplace for you. While some may think libraries are primarily for borrowing books and may find them a bit boring, that's not the case in Lodz. Here, libraries are vibrant hubs for people of all ages, from children to seniors.

In Lodz spending time in libraries is a common thing, with a wide range of events, workshops, reading and conversational clubs, and presentations regularly organized. As a volunteer, you'll have the opportunity to unleash your creativity by organizing activities for various age groups. Additionally, you may assist library staff with their everyday operations.

Does this sound interesting to you? Don't miss your chance to be part of the vibrant library community in Lodz.

SCHOOLS

Volunteering in Primary or Forest Schools

Another unique volunteering opportunity is available in Primary or Forest schools, both within and around the city. Volunteers in these organizations will engage with children aged 5 years and older. Their main responsibilities include assisting teachers, teaching English to children, organizing various outdoor and indoor activities, and facilitating developmental games. Additionally, volunteers have the opportunity to create and lead their own workshops.

For Forest schools, it's important to note that outdoor activities may take precedence over indoor activities in the natural environment. Volunteers in Forest schools can also experience different environments unique to these alternative schools, where their skills can be further developed and utilized.
